Realising a child's potential

SEEKING SPONSORSHIP SUPPORT

McKenzie Centre is a trusted early intervention centre. We were established in 1984 and since then have supported thousands of children with disabilities and their families.

We develop specific strategies, in partnership with families/whānau, to promote each child's development. These strategies are child-centred, play-based and family focused.

We regularly hear from whānau about the impact our staff make on their children's lives.

"We love the McKenzie Centre. It's so amazing having regular input from trained professionals in a child friendly environment. We always learn something and can action changes at home." – J.M.

We want to include everyone but because of financial worries some families struggle to attend. So we are asking for your support for the early childhood intervention some children desperately need.

WHERE WE NEED YOUR HELP...

We are seeking your help and assistance so that we can continue to provide our services to everyone in need, regardless of their financial situation.

We are reaching out for support from compassionate individuals and organisations such as yours. We already have some wonderful supporters, but we are always excited to work with other partners in the community and we hope you will join us.

"McKenzie Centre is our everything – we wouldn't be where we are today without them!" – K.B.

EARLY INTERVENTION WHAT THE RESEARCH SAYS

Decades of quality research highlights how early childhood experiences play a critical role in brain development. The first three years of a child's life are particularly important. Positive early experiences are essential prerequisites for later success in school, the workplace and the community.

Services to young children who have, or are at risk for, developmental delays have been shown to positively impact outcomes across developmental domains. High quality early intervention services can change a child's developmental trajectory and improve outcomes for children, whānau and communities. Intervention is likely to be more effective and less costly when it is provided earlier in life, rather than later.

Families benefit from early intervention by being better able to meet their children's special needs from an early age, and throughout their lives. Benefits to society include a reduced economic burden through a decreased need for special education and other support, and happier, more resilient families who contribute to their communities.
